

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

It is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the elements of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. Skookum "contains" neither minerals nor oils. It is not a dye, but a delicately cooling and refreshing tonic. It stimulates the follicles, it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum Root Hair Grower. It dries the scalp, kills the dandruff, and keeps the hair from falling out. It is a tonic for the scalp and hair.

If your druggist cannot supply you send direct to us, and we will forward prepaid, on receipt of price. Grower, $2.00 per bottle; 4 for $8.00. Soap, 50c. per jar; 6 for $3.00.

TRENTON'S BATTLE STATUE.

The Revolutionary Conflict commemorated at East. The Statue and Statue.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 30.—The monument to commemorate the revolutionary battle of Trenton was dedicated today in the presence of governors from several states, 5,000 militiamen from New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey and hosts of civilians.

The monument is 137 feet high and is surmounted by a thirteen foot statue of Washington. The shaft cost $60,000. For fifty years the subject of the erection of a monument to commemorate the battle of Trenton had been discussed, and it was not until May 7, 1881, that matters assumed any shape. The bronze statue of Washington at the top presented by the state of New York through a legislative appropriation in view of the fact that New York troops participated in the battle of Trenton, which engagement probably decided the fate of our country. Congress appropriated $30,000.

HE DIDN'T KNOW.

The Woman Was Angry and the Train Caller Nearly Lost His Job.

Over 150 trains a day come into the Grand Central depot, Philadelphia, and the other afternoon, just when business was heaviest and one of the long suffering station attaches was calling out the 513 express from Albany, a woman came up to him, her whole figure a life size interrogation point.

"Do trains from Connecticut come in here?" she asked.

"Yes, madam," replied the station man.

"Express trains?"

"Yes, madam."

"All trains?"

"Yes, madam."

She cogitated a moment and then asked:

"What time does the evening train from—oh, dear, I've forgotten the name of the town, but it's in Connecticut, and seventeen trains a day stop there—you know the town I mean. Now tell me when the evening train from there comes in."

"But madam," mildly expostulated the train caller, "you haven't told me—"

"Yes, I have," interrupted the woman.

"But, madam, I don't know—"

"Oh, that's it," she snapped; "you don't know. What are you here for but to know when trains come in?"

"I'd be happy to tell you if—"

"No such thing," snarled the now thoroughly aroused woman; "you know, but you won't tell me. You're an impertinent rascal and I shall report you at once," which she proceeded to do.

Nothing came of it, but the unfortunate man nearly lost his job because he could not answer the impossible question of a silly, irritable woman.

A MEAN TRICK.

Changing the Book Marks Lures a Lawyer His Case.

A lawyer, defending a promissory note went to lunch, leaving his books and citations on the table in the court room. The opposing counsel sneaked back into the room and changed the places of all his book marks. In the afternoon the lawyer, taking up his books, referred the court to his authorities. His Lordship noted every volume and page carefully and took the case under consideration. In rendering his opinion, he said:

"I was inclined after hearing the argument of counsel for defendant to nonsuit plaintiff, but I find after referring to the authorities, quoted by counsel none of them bear on the case, and I am led to think that the gentleman has wilfully been trying to mislead the court. He has referred to me an action of an Irishman who sued the proprietor of a monkey for damages for biting him, to a case of arson, one of burglary, two of petty larceny and three divorce cases, none of which bear on an action to recover a promissory note. Perhaps the grossest insult to the court is referring to 'Duckworth vs. Boozeman,' an action charging defendant with breach of promise. Judgment for plaintiff, with costs."

The lawyer never knew what the matter was, and to this day he thinks the judge was out of his mind.

SECRETARY FOSTER'S CHAIR.

How Carefully the Government Looks After Things of Small Value.

It is the peculiar impression that the smaller affairs of government are very loosely run, and that in any of the departments are opportunities for fat pickings by any man not over-scrupulous.

As evidence of the incorrectness of this theory one of the treasury department employees relates an incident of the first day of Mr. Carlisle's administration. Secretary Foster had occupied one chair at his desk for a long time, and, as men will, had become attached to it. He expressed a desire to take it with him.

"Certainly," said his successor, "take it along."

It was more easily said than done. First an order was necessary; then the chair was to be accounted for to the official who has such matters in charge; then it was to be paid for.

It was a valueless piece of furniture. As a short way out of the difficulty the appraiser was sent for. He eyed the wreck over and over and said it might be worth $75 anybody who wanted it very much.

"All right," said the secretary. Then he put his hand in his pocket, pulled out a $2 bill, paid the official, and presented the chair to his predecessor.

False Christs.

Not less than four false Christs are mentioned as having appeared between the years 1614 and 1683, among them Sabbathia Zebi, the greatest of all the many Jewish pretenders. Zebi made a great noise in the religious world, imposing himself upon the Jews as "King of the Kings of the Earth." He finally tried his hand at converting the Orient, and was only saved from being plucked by poisonous arrows by embracing Islamism and agreeing to labor for that faith. Of the other three, one was Mordecai, a German Jew; the names of the others are not given in history.

They Learn to Fast.

"Well, Willie, how did you like it?" asked the fond mamma when her angel child returned from his first day at the public school. "Really," ejaculated the cherub with a new light in his eyes. "But, ma, don't call me Willie, my name's 'Bill'."

Killing Men and Rabbits.

In the days of William the conqueror it was more dangerous to kill a rabbit than a man. A man who would escape with payment of a fine, a rabbit slayer was put to death.
